

INTERNATIONAL LAW

REVISTA COLOMBIANA DE DERECHO INTERNACIONAL

PUBLICATION GUIDELINES

I. GENERAL GUIDELINES (ARTICLES)

1. A hard copy and a disc copy shall be sent to the Journal's publisher. The printed copy shall be double spaced, in A4 paper and font type 12.
2. As it is a journal subjected to the revision of third parties, the Editors will appoint a commentaries editor who shall decide upon its merits for publication and its scientific quality. The committee has the faculty of accepting the article, requesting modifications or rejecting it for publication.
3. Editors shall favor for publication: (1) research articles with a strong theoretical reference; (2) Theoretical reflection articles; (3) critical review articles on the state of the question as to the analyzed issue, all framed by conceptual and methodological rigor and significantly contributing to the juridical discussion.
4. Articles of types 1, 2, and 3 presented in the preceding number can not exceed 35 pages. Editors might accept other types of articles as notes, communications, lectures, contribution summaries, reviews, etc. and they shall not exceed 15 pages.

5. As it is an international law review, articles might be submitted in idioms different than Spanish.
6. Articles shall include an abstract in its original language, in Spanish and in English with a maximum extension of 200 words. It shall also contain among 4 and 6 key words describing its contents in the two languages mentioned above, an introduction, a development and conclusions.
7. Citing references shall be footnoted and its listing shall be continuous (it cannot be in the way of chapters)
8. Footnotes shall be presented as follows
  - Author's last name and initials in capital letters.
  - Title.
  - Volume.
  - Location.
  - Publishing house.
  - Year of publication.
  - Number of the first and last page consulted.
  - If article consulted is a periodical publication, title shall be written with quotes and the name of the paper or magazine in italics.
9. In the final part of the article, consulted bibliography shall be indicated alphabetically, in accordance with the author's last name, taking into account footnotes presentation guidelines.
10. In the bottom of the first page with an asterisk, the institution the author belongs to and his/her academic degrees shall be indicated.

11. Below the name of the author of the manuscript, the institution the author currently belongs to shall be indicated and a footnote indicating address, city and country shall be also included.
12. When delivering the article a form shall be filled out with the following information:
  - Title of the manuscript.
  - Authors
  - Institution he/she belongs to.

13. Authors are encouraged to consult and make references to the Pontificia Universidad Javeriana Law Faculty law journals (Vniversitas and International Law Revista Colombiana de Derecho Internacional) in the following links:

<http://www.javeriana.edu.co/internationallaw>
<http://www.javeriana.edu.co/vniversitas>
14. The journal is published in the months of May and November. A written response as to the evaluation of the manuscript will be informed. Once the manuscript is accepted, we will inform about the issue in which it will be published.
15. The International Law Revista Colombiana de Derecho Internacional assumes that the remission of a manuscript indicates that the author or authors certify and accept that (i) such has neither been published nor accepted for publication in any other journal; (2) that no previous publication as working paper (or “gray literature”) has been reported, even as web site publication, and that in the case that the publication is accepted, authors will withdraw manuscripts from the web sites and they will leave there only the title, the abstract, the key words and the journal web site reference.

16. Upon sending manuscripts for the review of third parties, author or authors accept as well that they will transfer all copyrights to the journal for the publication of the manuscript in a printed or electronic version.

II. RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

1. This section has the purpose of presenting the reader with an analysis of jurisprudence, studies and recent legal developments both from international organisms and from state institutions, selected by its transcendence and importance for International Law.
2. Analysis shall not be more than 2,000 words in length. Authors shall give a critical approach to the text they have analysed. That entails their knowing in-depth their points of view and the introduction of bibliographical footnotes that serve as comments, as required in any academic essay.
3. Analysis shall identify the institution that issued the document, date, the organ it was published in, indicating the volume and date of publication and other information permitting authors to consult it.
4. In this section it is possible too to publish several summaries of jurisprudential and legal developments of International Law, with a maximum 500 word extension that may be relevant for future discussions.

III. BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SECTION

1. The book to be reviewed must be characterized by its novelty, scientific approach, importance, critique, and its contribution to law. These elements, without excluding others, must be kept in mind by the author in order to publish her or his reviews in this journal.

2. Text references shall be made under the essay-review mode in order to make a contribution to the readers wanting to get closer to a determined text. That entails the presence of a footnote bibliographical reference that serves as a critic comment to the review, as required in any academic essay.
3. The essay-review shall refer to the chosen book and it shall be an approximate 2000 word text. The author of the review shall present not only a mention of chapters the text is composed of but he/she shall also give the readers a general reading frame reference.
4. The essay-review shall show the text strength lines or main hypothesis of the text under review in order to be able to make to the reader the recommendation that is deemed as pertinent.

IV. INTERNATIONAL AGENDA

1. The International Agenda section seeks to be an analysis segment of major events, at the level of global forums, international meetings and ministerial conferences, among others, where the impacts, positions, expectations and results of those summons are studied in the ambit of foreign trade, investment, human rights and environmental protection.
2. International Agenda section contributions referred to events and developments shall be made under the mode of descriptive essay, in order to inform in a brief fashion about relevant developments in the different matters of the journal ambit.
3. Contributions shall not be greater than 2,000 words in length.

4. It is important for descriptive essays to establish discussions that dominated the different events and to not be limited to a simple mention of lecturers and conferences. Contribution shall provide reflection and thinking criteria fostering the in-depth study of specific issues.
